

READING, a family matter!

I enjoy spending time with you. It is a magical time that makes me feel good.

Let's play restaurant together. Let's make a menu with flyers and I will take orders from the other members of the family.

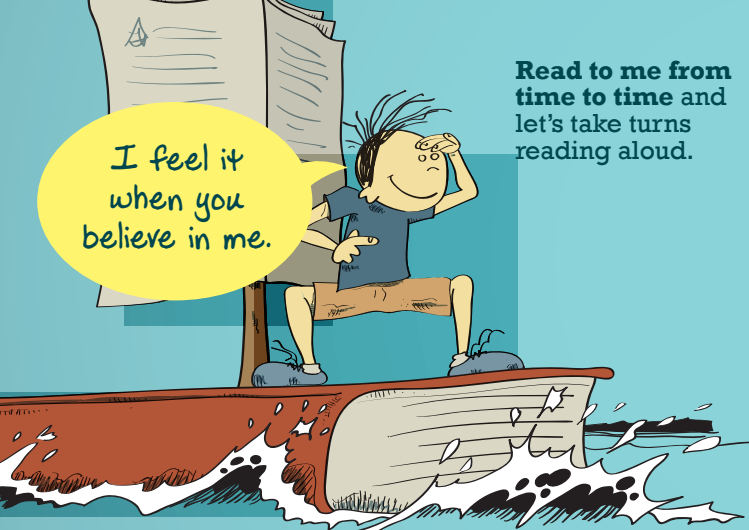

I need encouragement every day.

Ask me to imagine what will happen in the story, from the beginning.

I need to know that you are there for me.

Leave me short messages in my lunch box, on the fridge, in my books, etc. I have a lot of fun reading them.

A cartoon illustration of a boy with spiky hair, wearing a blue t-shirt and brown shorts, sitting on a log in a river. He has a speech bubble coming from him. In the background, there are some papers or documents hanging from a post. The river is brown and has white splashes.

I feel it
when you believe in me.

Read to me from time to time and
let's take turns reading aloud.

As a parent, you are a significant adult in your child's life and you have an important role to play in helping them to develop an interest in reading.

- If you pronounce words the right way, your child will pronounce them the right way.
- If you read, your child will want to read.
- If you write, your child will want to write.
- By being present, you are developing a relationship with your child.
- You share the gift of reading when supporting your child.
- By encouraging reading, you are supporting success at school.

Thereby giving your child a gift for a life-time.
